

Did'ja Know?

Some churches remember this day by performing a foot washing ceremony. Jesus washed his disciples' feet to show he was first a servant of God.

Luke 22:1-27

Jesus knew that soon he was going to be killed. He wanted to celebrate one last special meal with his friends.

Jesus took some bread and passed it around. He said, "This is my body. Every time you share it together, remember that I died for you."

Then Jesus passed around a cup of wine for them to drink. He said, "This is my blood. Every time you share it together, remember God's new promise to be with you forever."

After they ate he said, "When I am gone, it will be your job to share God's love with everyone the same way I did."

"How should we do that?" asked his friend Peter.

"Remember that I came to be a servant. So you serve others like I did."

Last Supper

We call the remembrance of Jesus' last meal "communion" because God gets close to us during that time.

Spot the Differences

Jesus' last meal wasn't at a restaurant. And Jesus himself was the server at the meal! Eating together is always something special when you're with your friends. Spot the 5 differences between these pictures.
